"I'm a congresswoman from Wyoming, I'm endorsed by the NRA, and have an 80 percent rating from the American Conservative Union," says Cheney. 'Guys. I'm sorry. I thought this would be a fun thing for all of us. If it's not, then, let's just end it,' Davidson states as Swift appears to sing the bridge. Man park: Next, Davidson appears in a funny sketch with a solution for men with little or no male friends that lean on their wives or girlfriends for emotional support. The SNL Rittenhouse skit from November 13, 2021, on Weekend Update is getting attention. The Weekend Update anchor mocked Kyle Rittenhouse's testimony, in which he started crying on the witness stand, referring to a law school for "white tears," and comparing Rittenhouse to Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh. You can watch the video later in this article. Kyle Rittenhouse is the 18-year-old man who is on trial in Kenosha, Wisconsin, in the deaths of Joseph Rosenbaum and Anthony Huber and the shooting of Gaige Grosskreutz. He is claiming self-defense; the shootings occurred after nights of riots, protests, and arson fires following the police shooting of Jacob Blake. The officer who shot Blake was later cleared by the DA. The trial has drawn national attention, and generated scores of memes, so it's not surprising that Saturday Night Live decided to use it as fodder for a skit. Here's what you need to know: Sean L. McCarthy works the comedy beat for his own digital newspaper, 'Love Hard' is Ringing In Representation this Holiday Season. 20 years from now, Kyle Rittenhouse will be hosting SNL. NBC in association with Broadway Video Enterprises bring you the landmark sketch comedy series. Then came Aristotole Athari, as the stand-up comedian robot, Laughintosh 3000. You might think of Daniel Tosh 2008. A comedy nerd might bring up Ron Lynch's old bit where he portrayed a futuristic robot telling us about comedy. But only Laughintosh 3000 can do an impersonation of Instagram, or has a bit about trying to date a GPS and getting too many directions during sex. Next stop: Hulu Fan Shop, powered by Snowcommerce. No, Sane Senate Republicans Are Not To Blame For Another Near Federal Shutdown. Bannon was seen "shooting out of a sewer pipe," he continued. Then they turned to Rittenhouse, using a photo of the defendant crying on the witness stand. "Legal experts are saying that Kyle Rittenhouse crying on the stand as he described how he shot his victims will help him with the jury," said Che. "Man, is there a white tears law school that I don't know about? I notice that because every time you all get in trouble, you start crying and everything just works out for you whether you're trying to beat a murder charge or trying to be a supreme court justice." Here is the moment Rittenhouse broke down in tears. Streaming Library Live TV Live News Live Sports. The Harder They Fall. Judging by my own socials, the biggest sad-but-truly-satirical clown show has been going on in Kenosha, Wisc., courtesy of the circuit judge "presiding" over the homicide trial against Kyle Rittenhouse. But Judge Bruce Schroeder remains safe from Saturday Night Live 's satirical sketch writers for now. SNL granted Schroeder a one-week reprieve, at least. The same cannot be sad for U.S. Sen. Ted Cruz (R-Texas), however, who couldn't keep himself out of the punchlines yet again. Alec Baldwin Says His Career Could Be Over After 'Rust' Tragedy: "Couldn't Give a Sh*t". After the big TEENs sang Cruz's revised lyrics to the theme song, Marjorie Taylor Greene (Cecily Strong) showed up toting an assault rifle. She let us know the show was sponsored by the letter Q. Get it? In case you don't, or if you're still trying to figure out if that really was Kyle Mooney in the bird costume, don't worry, because this cold open proceeded to throw a whole bunch of things into the mix to see if any of them might keep you laughing. I suggested Joe Rogan as comedy fodder last week, only to watch as giant Pete Davidson gummed up the works, and also made it weird with the S and D reference (you're better off if you missed that news flash), and while I enjoyed seeing Alex Moffat and Mikey Day team up again (this time as Bert and Ernie), it all crumbled into a sad joke about homosexuality. Chris Redd as Oscar the Slouch was used for some misinformation. Aristotle Athari got to play the Recount Count, but they didn't give him much to do. Then, suddenly, in came Britney Spears (Chloe Fineman). Once again, a cold open that tried to do too much, when they could've spread some of these ideas out into their own sketch ideas or even Weekend Update bits. They then showed a picture of Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh from the nomination hearings. Here's video of that.
